INTRODUCTION

This document contains information essential for the success of our movement. While our manifesto is essential reading, and provides numerous invaluable ways that people can assist our movement, this document contains a list of additional objectives that must be achieved in order to ensure our movement's success. Unlike the forms of assistance explored in our manifesto, those mentioned here require a smaller number of people, and particularly those with very specific skills. However please do not contribute to our movement if this would put you at risk in any way, such as if you live in an authoritarian country.

The ways in which people can assist us have been divided into 4 categories.

- Xova wiki: General
- Xova wiki: Databases
- Xova wiki: Critiques
- Miscellaneous

At time of writing the Xova wiki does not yet exist, but will do in the near future. We would encourage everyone reading this to first go to the Xova wiki and read the progress report to understand what initiatives they can assist with.

Please keep in mind that many of the objectives described in this document will need to be completed in multiple languages, and ideally in as many languages as possible. It will likely be both necessary and ideal for language translation to be assisted by AI, particularly considering our movement's tight deadlines. All websites created for The Xova Movement must also be designed to be as difficult as possible to sabotage or take down.

XOVA WIKI: GENERAL

The purpose of the Xova wiki is to provide a singular location where people can access all information related to our movement. This wiki must also contain all information from our website in case our website is taken down. Identical versions of this website will need to exist on both the clear net and the onion network or some other kind of decentralized and distributed network, since those opposed to our movement will likely try to take this wiki down. Our supporters must also contact search engine companies and pressure them to ensure that only the official Xova website and Xova wiki setup by our supporters appear at the top of their search results, and that all fraudulent and imposter websites are blacklisted.

We would also encourage those who create and run the Xova wiki to do so anonymously, as the threat that the ruling class poses to activists who oppose them cannot be understated.

The Xova wiki must contain the following information.

Xova Centralized Fund contributions

The front page must contain a hyperlink to a page with a list of all the things we have contributed towards, and how much we have contributed, from our Xova Centralized Fund. This information must also include the amount of money contributed in total.

Xova Wiki Costs

The front page must contain the costs of running this website, and Monero and Bitcoin addresses for those wishing to contribute to its running and maintenance, as well as the amount of money in these addresses. A "view-only wallet" file and the "key images" file for the Monero address must be available to download.

Updates

The front page must contain the most recent and important news and updates regarding our movement.

Progress report

The Xova wiki, and potentially the front page, must contain a list of all the objectives laid out in this and all future announcements, and the extent to which they have been achieved. This will make it quick and easy for our supporters to understand how they can help.

Announcement video link: English and Non-English versions

The Xova wiki must contain a hyperlink to our announcement video, as well as non-English versions.

Xova Announcement Flyer: English and Non-English versions

The Xova wiki must contain our "Xova Announcement Flyer", and in as many languages as possible. If our website is taken down, then the English version of our flyer must also be modified to direct people to the Xova wiki. If the foreign language versions of our manifesto are not yet ready, these foreign language flyers must reassure recipients that these will be ready shortly, and encourage them to check the Xova wiki on a daily basis.

The Xova Manifesto: English and Non-English versions

The Xova wiki must contain online, e-book, and audiobook versions of our manifesto, as well as the Religion Edition of our manifesto, in as many languages as possible. Online versions of each manifesto must be divided appropriately into separate webpages. Grammatical errors can be corrected, but all other mistakes must remain. All of this needs to be completed as soon as possible. However, these foreign language versions do not need to include the following sections.

- The names of the independent commentators listed in the “Sources of Propaganda” section in Chapter 1. More specifically, the sentence beginning with “For those interested we will mention here 80 examples of the most influential...” and ending with “...to name some of the most prominent examples.” can be entirely removed, as this is mostly for English-speakers.
- The 3 paragraphs covering the Electoral College in the section titled “Capitalism is the best system for maximizing freedom” can be entirely removed, as this is mostly for Americans.
- The “Broken governments” section from the “Miscellaneous” section (p. 388) from Chapter 1 of our manifesto can be entirely removed, as this is mostly for Americans.

The Xova Manifesto: Mistakes

The Xova wiki must include a page dedicated to mistakes contained within the manifesto, including the glossary and appendix. These mistakes should be divided into appropriate categories.

Left-wing media

The Xova wiki must contain lists of trustworthy left-wing media producers on the internet that focus on political, economic, social, and cultural issues that are relevant to our manifesto. This should include video essayists, news channels, debaters, podcasters, live streamers, social media accounts, websites, and apps. These should be loosely ranked in order of quality and reliability, and divided into appropriate categories. If any of these have Monero and Bitcoin addresses for donations, these will need to be included, along with a hyperlink proving the authenticity of these addresses. This list is designed to assist those willing to engage in the “Left-wing media” initiative outlined in Chapter 3: Part 4 of our manifesto.

Atheist media

The Xova wiki must contain lists of trustworthy atheist media producers on the internet. This should predominantly focus on left-wing video essayists. These should be loosely ranked in order of quality and reliability, and divided into appropriate categories. This list is designed to assist those willing to engage in the “Addressing theistic religions” initiative outlined in Chapter 3: Part 4 of our manifesto.

Right-wing media

The Xova wiki must contain lists of the most influential right-wing media producers on the internet that focus on political, economic, social, and cultural issues that are relevant to our manifesto. This should include video essayists, news channels, debaters, podcasters, live streamers, social media accounts, websites, and apps. This list must also include all the webpages associated with these individuals and organizations. For example, political commentator Tim Pool has more than 1 YouTube channel, and each of these will need to be listed. This list must also include the webpages for both the organizations and the individuals within these organizations. For example, this list would include both The Daily Wire YouTube channel and Ben Shapiro’s personal YouTube channel, even though Ben Shapiro is also part of The Daily Wire. These should be loosely ranked in order of influence, and divided into appropriate categories. This list is designed to assist those willing to engage in the “Addressing economic illiteracy” initiative outlined in Chapter 3: Part 4 of our manifesto.

Protesting advice

The Xova wiki must include a page dedicated to providing essential information on how to participate in public protests safely, including advice on remaining anonymous and how to protect oneself from physical harm.

Online anonymity advice

The Xova wiki must include a page dedicated to explaining how to remain anonymous online. This should include at least the following information.

- How to use VPNs and the Tor network.
- How to remain anonymous when using email and cloud storage services.
- How to use Virtual Machines, including Whonix.
- How to install and operate Linux.
- How to best deal with the threat of internet traffic analysis.
- How to encrypt messages using PGP Private Keys and Public Keys.

Monero verification

The Xova wiki must include a page explaining how to verify messages and files using the Monero GUI Wallet.

Cryptocurrency advice

The Xova wiki must include a page providing advice on how to purchase, store, and send Monero and Bitcoin. This will need to include a table containing trustworthy decentralized and centralized exchanges, including how much can be purchased and withdrawn from these exchanges with and without "Know Your Customer" (KYC). This page must also explain how to use the Monero GUI Wallet from getmonero.org, and explain the implications of using the simple and advanced wallet modes, as well as the Socks5 proxy feature. This page will also need to explain anonymity limitations with different configurations and under different circumstances, including within the context of quantum computers and EAE attacks, so that people understand their anonymity capabilities.

Vegan diets

The Xova wiki must include a page providing advice on how to live healthily on a vegan diet, as well as the risks of non-vegan diets.

Many websites contain erroneous, conflicting, or incomplete information, so the purpose of this page will be to provide a singular, comprehensive, and trustworthy source on this subject.

Vegan animal diets

The Xova wiki must include a page providing advice on how to raise pets healthily on a vegan diet, as well as the risks of non-vegan diets. Many websites contain erroneous, conflicting, or incomplete information, so the purpose of this page will be to provide a singular, comprehensive, and trustworthy source on this subject.

Essential life advice

The Xova wiki must include a page providing life advice that everyone should be aware of but likely isn't. Consequently this should not include advice that would only be relevant to very small percentages of the population. This page should be about 50,000 words, although an additional page of less essential knowledge could also be created and linked as an addendum. This essential life knowledge could include the following.

- Advice on communication and relationships, such as information regarding love languages.
- Advice on avoiding unnecessary risks, such as never putting one's feet on the dashboard of a vehicle when travelling in the front passenger seat due to the danger posed by airbags during accidents.
- Advice on how to stay safe in public places, such as how to avoid or deal with stampedes and crowd crushes.
- Advice on how to protect or save people, such as how to perform CPR.
- Advice on how to consume ethically, such as avoiding antibacterial soaps.

The information on this page will not be used for any of our future initiatives, and will simply exist to help those wishing to improve their life and society. Consequently this page should not be considered a priority.

Software: The Xova Movement app

The Xova wiki must include a page providing information about, and a hyperlink to, The Xova Movement smart phone app mentioned in the "Miscellaneous" section of this document.

Software: Elections

The Xova wiki must include a page providing information about, and hyperlinks to, the STAR-blockchain voting system software and the election redistricting software mentioned in the "Miscellaneous" section of this document.

Software: Algorithm calculators

The Xova wiki must include a page providing information about, and hyperlinks to, all of the Algorithm calculators mentioned in the "Miscellaneous" section of this document.

Software: Critical thinking

The Xova wiki must include a page providing information about, and a hyperlink to, the critical thinking smart phone app mentioned in the "Miscellaneous" section of this document.

Validation and support video hyperlinks

The Xova wiki must include a page providing hyperlinks to all the videos and other evidence of public figures validating our future initiatives and expressing support for our movement. The purpose of this page is to help those who volunteer to create the "validation video" and "support video" mentioned in the "Miscellaneous" section of this document. This page must also include hyperlinks to these videos. Ideally our supporters would be able to vote on the "support video" they believe would be the most effective at convincing members of the public to support our movement. The best "Support video" will be placed on the front page of our website as a way of validating our movement to the public and generating enthusiasm.

Awareness spectacles

The Xova wiki must include a page containing a list of ways people can spread awareness of our movement. This should not just include conventional ways, such as promoting our movement on social media and wearing Xova merchandise, but also legal public spectacles people could engage in. We would encourage our supporters to be creative and think outside of the box. If our Xova Centralized Fund receives enough money, we will financially compensate people for engaging in such initiatives.

Promotional material

The Xova wiki must include a page providing hyperlinks to all the promotional material mentioned in the "Miscellaneous" section of this document.

Information for the founders of The Xova Movement

The Xova wiki must include a page providing all information required by us, the founders of The Xova Movement, including any hyperlinks proving the authenticity of this information. If the Xova wiki is created in time, this page must include the encrypted PGP messages created by those willing to help us with validating our future initiatives.

XOVA WIKI: DATABASES

The Xova wiki must contain the following 8 databases, all of which will be essential for our future initiatives.

These databases will need to fulfill the following criteria.

- These databases would ideally be completed by mid-June. This will be difficult to achieve but must be strived for.
- These databases must include individuals that fit the necessary criteria regardless of how reprehensible or evil they are, or are accused of being.
- These databases must not include anyone 12 years old or younger, and those who are under 18 years of age must be tagged as such.
- These databases must not include individuals who are unable to speak on camera. For example, these databases must not include those who are incarcerated or highly reclusive.
- These databases must not be limited to English-speakers.
- These databases must include the contact email addresses and social media accounts of these individuals where possible.
- These databases must be displayed in a table format. Additional columns will need to be added in the future once our next major announcement has been made.

Database 1

This database must contain the 500,000 people in the world with the greatest amount of institutional power who protect the ruling class and their interests, such as those who work for intelligence agencies, law enforcement, the military, private security agencies, and legal systems. This database must not include anyone who appears on databases 2, 3, 4, or 5.

Database 2

This database must contain the 500,000 people in the world with the greatest amount of social and cultural influence. This database must not include those who are merely famous, but instead those with the influence to change the minds of the largest number of people. This database should include, but not be limited to, musicians, actors, filmmakers, authors, social media influencers, and activists. This database must not include anyone who appears on databases 1, 3, 4, or 5.

Database 3

This database must contain the 500,000 political and economic commentators with the greatest amount of influence. This database should include, but not be limited to, journalists, columnists, newsreaders, economists, talk show hosts, podcasters, live streamers, and video essayists. Every person must be tagged with the company they work for if not independent. This database must not include anyone who appears on databases 1, 2, 4, or 5.

Database 4

This database must contain every elected politician and current political candidate in the world, or at least as many as possible. The total number of people in this database should be included on the front page of this database. This database must not include anyone who appears on databases 1, 2, 3, or 5.

Database 5

This database must contain the 1,000,000 people in the world with the greatest amount of influence regarding theistic religions. This database should include, but not be limited to, preachers, theologians, and officials within religious organizations. This database must not include anyone who appears on databases 1, 2, 3, or 4.

Database 6

This database must contain the 100 most influential mainstream and independent right-wing political and economic commentators, such as Sean Hannity, Laura Ingraham, Tucker Carlson, Tim Pool, Steven Crowder, Dennis Prager, Candice Owens, and Ben Shapiro. These individuals should generally be listed from the most influential to the least influential. This database must also tag those who currently support Donald Trump, right-wing American politicians, or the Republican Party. This database can include individuals who appear on other databases.

Database 7

This database must contain the 100 most skilled left-wing or left-leaning political and economic debaters. For every language that is spoken by those in database 6 there must be at least 1 person who speaks this language in this database, since a future initiative will involve debates between people in these 2 databases. These individuals don't have to agree with every idea in our manifesto, but they must support most of them, and our movement as a whole. The most important thing however is that these individuals must be very effective debaters. These individuals should generally be listed from the most effective debaters to least effective debaters. This database can include individuals who appear on other databases.

Database 8

This database must contain the 1000 most influential and outspoken male anti-abortion advocates in the world. More specifically, this database should ideally only include those who demand an abortion cut-off date before 20 weeks. These people can be influential in terms of their institutional power or ability to persuade others. This database can include individuals who appear on other databases.

If any of the individuals on these databases wishes to read our manifesto, we would encourage them to do so aloud on camera, as they will benefit from this if our movement is successful.

XOVA WIKI: CRITIQUES

The Xova wiki must contain 2 critiques, both of which will be essential for our future initiatives. The eventual purpose of these critiques will be to persuade right-wing Americans to never again trust the individuals explored within these critiques. Even though these critiques will only need to be in English, it may be necessary for their creation to be assisted by AI, particularly considering our movement's tight deadlines.

These critiques will need to fulfill the following criteria.

- These critiques would ideally be completed by mid-June. This will be difficult to achieve but must be strived for.
- These critiques should be approximately 100,000 words each. Alternatively they can be written as one 200,000 word critique, with approximately 100,000 words dedicated to each subject.
- These critiques will eventually be read by individuals who have already read our manifesto, so they should be written with this in mind when exploring anything already mentioned in our manifesto. More specifically, information within these critiques should avoid repeating information explored in our manifesto unless it is worth expanding upon.
- These critiques must be written impartially and academically like a high-quality encyclopedia entry, but should be easy to understand by all readers, regardless of education or background.
- These critiques should be as objective and honest as possible. Most of the individuals included in these critiques will have said or done reprehensible and unintelligent things, so it should not be difficult to find evidence capable of persuading readers of their untrustworthiness. For example, one of these critiques will focus on

Donald Trump, who has provided overwhelming evidence that he is one of the most unintelligent, uncritically minded, scientifically illiterate, unknowledgeable, short-sighted, arrogant, immature, petulant, egotistical, selfish, thin-skinned, sociopathic, dishonest, lazy, corrupt, and antidemocratic individuals to become a world leader in recent history, as well as being one of the worst presidents in American history. Therefore, there is no reason to rely upon questionable evidence, or uncharitable interpretations of evidence, to support these truths. Doing so will only undermine our movement, and therefore must be avoided at all costs.

- These critiques should make good use of quotes and statistics where appropriate. This should include incorrect or misleading statements the individuals explored in these critiques have made about our movement, including our manifesto.
- These critiques should be as comprehensive as possible, meaning they will also need to be succinct. Consequently they should make generous use of bullet points where appropriate. Additionally, these critiques should include hyperlinks to sources that prove all claims, which will further reduce the word count. For example, instead of writing out a 100 word quote to make a point, it would also be reasonable to use only a few words from this quote, or to simply summarize the meaning of this quote, as long as this quote is not taken out of context.
- These critiques can recommend additional media, such as Xova wiki articles and video essays, that further prove the points made in these critiques. For example, many of the individuals that will be explored within these critiques have already been scrutinized in high-quality and engaging left-wing video essays.
- These critiques will eventually be read out loud by others, so must only include text and numbers, and nothing like graphs or tables.
- These critiques must avoid any information related to gun rights. This issue is important, but is too complex and contentious to be dealt with within the space of these pages, and falls far outside the purpose of this particular initiative.

- These critiques should predominantly focus on issues that right-wing American's are concerned about, which will generally be different to the issues that left-wing audiences are concerned about.

Critique 1: United States presidential candidates

This critique must detail the deceitfulness, heartlessness, or idiocy, of all Republican or right-wing candidates that are running in the United States 2024 presidential election, so in other words Donald Trump at this moment in time. At least 50,000 of these words must be dedicated to Donald Trump even if he drops out of the race. This critique can also include information related to negative things these individuals have said or done outside of office.

Critique 2: The Republican Party

This critique must detail the deceitfulness, heartlessness, or idiocy, of the Republican Party during the past 20 years, and especially during the past few years. This critique should also cover important issues the Republican Party has ignored.

At the end of these 2 critiques should be 1 or 2 paragraphs encouraging readers to recognize that right-wing news organizations and political commentators, such as Fox News, The Daily Wire, Steven Crowder, and Tim Pool, have repeatedly lied, including lying by omission, regarding the issues raised in these 2 critiques, and are therefore completely untrustworthy as reliable sources of information. This section should recommend a list of trustworthy left-wing sources of information regarding political, economic, social, and cultural issues. This section should end by encouraging readers to educate and deradicalize others who currently support Republican presidential candidates and politicians.

Awareness: Announcement Video foreign language versions

We are looking for volunteers to create foreign language versions of our announcement video. These will need to be different in 3 ways. First, they must include foreign language audio and text. Second, they must direct people to the Xova wiki, not TheXovaMovement.com. Third, our supporters do not need to include the slide starting with "For those who have yet to be convinced to support our movement..." and ending with "...be placed on the front page of our website as a way of validating our movement to the public and generating enthusiasm." These versions and the English version will then need to be uploaded to a YouTube channel dedicated to this purpose. These videos will be essential, but they must never be the primary way of spreading awareness, growing support, or creating hype for our movement, as this must instead derive from the creativity and enthusiasm of our supporters.

Awareness: Website and accounts

We would strongly encourage those who support our movement to do everything they can to protect our website and our Vimeo account. Those opposed to our movement will obviously do everything they can to take them down, so it would be invaluable if our supporters did everything possible to pressure SquareSpace and Vimeo to do everything possible to keep them safe from such takedown attempts, and to immediately reverse any changes if our accounts are hacked. Please note that all major updates we make on our website will always come with a Monero verification signature.

We would also strongly encourage our supporters do everything they can to ensure that any fake videos trying to represent our movement are taken down. For example, our announcement video contains our Monero addresses and Bitcoin address, and it is likely that scammers will reupload this video with these addresses replaced with their own.

Awareness: Delivering flyers

We would strongly encourage those who support our movement to pressure those who have the ability and influence to do so, such as canvassing organizers and influential left-wing figures, to organize and encourage people to deliver our “Xova Announcement Flyer” to a significant percentage of homes around the world. This will be challenging but is plausible. If 500,000 people each delivered flyers to 800 homes over the course of a single weekend, theoretically this would cover practically all homes in the developed world. Individual protests can attract anywhere from 100,000 to 1 million people, so finding enough people to help with this initiative is possible, particularly considering the content we’ve released so far clearly explains how a democratic socialist revolution would quickly and substantially improve everyone’s quality of life.

Left-wing organizations and activists

We would strongly encourage those who support our movement to pressure left-wing organizations and activists, whose goals overlap with our own, to do everything within their power to support our movement. This is without question the quickest path to achieving their goals, as well as all other goals advocated for by the left.

Left-wing political and economic commentators

We would strongly encourage those who support our movement to pressure left-wing political and economic commentators, such as video essayists, news channels, debaters, podcasters, and live streamers, to do everything within their power to support our movement. They should also create a Monero and Bitcoin address that people can donate to as a means of encouraging them to support, or rewarding them for supporting, our movement. We will also donate to some of these individuals, specifically in exchange for them dedicating most of their content to explaining and supporting our movement between now and the end of November. If they create a Monero address they must do so by downloading the Monero GUI Wallet from getmonero.org. They must also create a view-only wallet and upload this file for others to download. If they create a Bitcoin address we would encourage them to use a non-custodial wallet, such as Electrum, since they will have control over their private “keys”. If these individuals receive money from us, but they later choose not to produce content covering our movement, we would ask that they return this money to our address.

Book publishers

We would strongly encourage those who support our movement to pressure book publishers to sell our manifesto in book form. It does not concern us if publishers do this as a for-profit venture, because our main priority is spreading awareness of our movement and manifesto. Grammatical errors can be corrected, but all other mistakes must remain. This is to ensure nothing is changed by publishers for deceitful purposes. It will be the sole responsibility of our supporters to catalogue and correct mistakes on the Xova wiki.

Merchandise

We would strongly encourage those who support our movement to produce and sell Xova merchandise, such as t-shirts, hoodies, baseball caps, and flags, even if this is done as a for-profit venture. We would also strongly encourage our supporters to try to persuade relevant businesses to produce such products.

Debaters

We would strongly encourage those who support our movement to pressure the 150 people catalogued on databases 6 and 7 to read our manifesto, as this will be necessary for our future debates. Ideally they would read our manifesto aloud on camera, starting with the glossary and appendix. As a reward and incentive for reading our manifesto aloud on camera, and for every debate that takes place, they will receive financial compensation, and a sizable amount of money will also be given to charity. The money that will be used to financially compensate these individuals will not come from our supporters, nor from the money donated to us by our supporters. Our future debates will ideally start in June, and will ideally involve 2 hour debates once a week until at least the end of November.

Wikipedia

The Wikipedia page for our movement must contain hyperlinks to TheXovaMovement.com and the Xova wiki, and ideally our announcement video and our manifesto. Our Wikipedia page must also remain in permanent “protected” status.

YouTube

We would strongly encourage those who support our movement to pressure YouTube to fulfill the following demands. The reason is that echo chambers are extremely harmful to society, and our 3 demands will go at least some way to remediating this problem on YouTube. First, change their algorithm to prioritize left-wing political and economic commentators. Second, reinstitute the dislike button counter for their videos, since this can provide invaluable feedback for users. Third, prevent channels from deleting comments under most circumstances, since comments also provide invaluable feedback for users. Instead channels should either be able to disable comments or make individual comments invisible, while each user should be able to make invisible comments visible again for themselves at the click of a button. Channels should be able to remove grossly inappropriate comments, such as threats of violence, but multiple instances of misuse of this feature should result in punishment for the channel, such as shadow banning or demonetization. Similar demands could also be made of other social media websites.

Fitness-for-duty tests

We are looking for volunteers to create the fitness-for-duty tests explored in the “Election reforms” section of our manifesto, and specifically p. 431, and to create an organization that is responsible for carrying out these tests. These fitness-for-duty tests would ideally be ready at least 3 months prior to voting taking place. These fitness-for-duty tests must include the following tests.

- A critical thinking exam, and ideally one that takes at least 8 hours to complete. An even better solution would be to create a digital database of hundreds or thousands of questions and answers that could be used by a program to instantly create a potentially infinite number of original critical thinking exams. This database of questions would be too extensive to memorize, meaning even if this database was created collaboratively and made public, it would still be easier for a person taking the exam to simply improve their critical thinking skills, rather than attempt to memorize this database of questions.
- An essential knowledge exam that can test a candidate's knowledge about politics, economics, science, sentience morality, geography, history, and other essential information required by politicians. Certain parts of this exam may need to be different for different countries, such as those that cover politics, geography, and history.
- A training manual, and potentially a course, that covers essential information and skills related to governing. This must cover the information that will be tested in the essential knowledge exam described above.
- A psychological evaluation for candidates of high-ranking positions. This will require the creation of a database of qualified and vetted experts that are willing to perform these psychological evaluations.

Political candidate website

We are looking for volunteers to create the political candidate website explored in the "Election reforms" section of our manifesto, and specifically p. 432. This website will need to fulfill 3 primary functions. First, it will need to be capable of hosting all the answers provided by political candidates that they will be required to provide before running for office. Second, it will need to be capable of hosting the results of all fitness-for-duty tests that politicians undergo. Third, it will need to provide visitors with a questionnaire that can reveal to them which candidates they most align with. This would ideally be ready by August.

Software: The Xova Movement App

We are looking for volunteers to create a smart phone app for The Xova Movement. This would give users advice, important updates, and most importantly a list of the addresses of certain businesses that will be boycotted if they refuse to cooperate with us as part of our future initiatives. At the very least this app must contain a search function so that people can quickly see which businesses at which locations will be boycotted. Ideally this app would also contain national maps that display this information as well.

Software: STAR-blockchain voting system

We are looking for volunteers to create the open source, STAR-blockchain voting system explored in "Part 1: Roadmap" of Chapter 2 of our manifesto (p. 439). This would ideally be ready by August.

This voting system will require some additional software requirements not discussed in our manifesto. First, this voting system will require the creation of software that can be used by governments to input citizen data and output the necessary voting codes, and all other necessary information. Second, every election in the world will need to use the same blockchain system. This will make it effectively impossible to compromise any election due to the massive computational power that would be required to do so. Third, the voting software required to modify the blockchain will need to be open source, and created and tested through the global cooperation of hundreds of programmers and white hat hackers. This will make it extremely unlikely that any malicious entity will ever be able to discover and utilize exploits in this software. Even in the extremely unlikely event that this occurred and compromised an election, this would be impossible to hide. On the rare chance that this did occur, these exploits could quickly be patched, and voters could just vote again, either using their existing codes or newly created codes. This failsafe will be easy to guarantee once governments have been reformed in the ways described in our manifesto.

Fourth, our voting system will also need to address the possibility of voters being bribed. This problem has always existed, but is an extremely minor problem. However, because our voting system will make it easier for voters to prove who they voted for, which will slightly increase the possibility of this problem occurring, we propose one possible solution. Governments could sell voting codes on the black market that appear to function perfectly, but which are subtracted from the final results. Black market buyers would be unable to discover the illegitimacy of these fake codes, but voters would be able to determine their illegitimacy as soon as voting came to an end. Our supporters will need to create software that can do this. Simple practical solutions such as this will easily prevent election fraud from occurring on a large scale.

Software: Redistricting

We are looking for volunteers to create an open source program that can be used internationally to impartially determine the boundaries of voting districts. This is to end gerrymandering and to ensure fair elections. This would ideally be ready by August. Such open source software may already exist, in which case this can be used if it is suitable.

Software: Algorithm calculators

We are looking for volunteers to research and develop algorithms, and accompanying software, that can be used to determine the following variables in a democratic socialist society.

- Compensation for those with severe disabilities.
- Worker compensation.
- The price of goods and services.

- The allocation of housing properties.

These should be created in accordance with the outlines provided in Chapter 1 of our manifesto. This means questionnaires for the public will also need to be created and completed at some point. Additional algorithms could be researched and developed, but these 4 should be considered essential. These would ideally be ready by November.

Software: Critical thinking app

We are looking for volunteers to create a smart phone app that teaches critical thinking skills, including information not covered in the appendix of our manifesto, such as statistical analysis. This would include useful functions, such as teaching users a critical thinking concept every day, and repeating these concepts after a certain number of days to increase memory retention. This app could also include puzzles and quizzes designed to test and rate users, as well as leaderboards.

Critical thinking videos

We are looking for volunteers to create videos that teach critical thinking skills, including information not covered in the appendix of our manifesto, such as statistical analysis. These videos should have high production values, should all share the same visual aesthetic, and should heavily rely upon infographics, such as Venn diagrams and graphs, to explain their ideas. Ideally they should also be very short, such as 15 seconds to 2 minutes in length, although they could be longer if necessary. These videos should be produced in as many languages as possible, and be uploaded to different YouTube channels dedicated to each language, with all of these YouTube channels sharing the same aesthetic.

Xova Rewards Database

We are looking for volunteers to create a website that can catalogue all instances of people completing the objectives that will be financially compensated by our movement, and which will be explained when we make our next major announcement. This database will serve as a centralized hub where people can upload evidence of having completed these objectives, and where we and our supporters can discover and financially reward these individuals. Ideally this website would exist on some kind of decentralized and distributed network, since a centralized server would be vulnerable to being taken down. This website would ideally be completed by mid-June, and will need to fulfill multiple functions.

- This website will only need to store text, or potentially QR codes as well if this is considered viable. Consequently, the entire database will unlikely ever be more than a few terabytes in size.
- This website will require submitters to sign up and create an account, so the webpages and infrastructure required for this will need to be put in place. Ideally the creation of an account would not require an email address, only a unique identifier and password, so that submitters can more easily remain anonymous.
- This website will need to have a page that allows our supporters to submit video evidence that they have successfully completed these specific objectives and are consequently eligible for financial compensation. Only 3 to 4 pieces of information will be required from these individuals, while some additional pieces of information will be optional. The first piece of information is the type of objective they have completed, which can be provided by the page in the form of a dropdown menu. The second piece of information is a hyperlink or multiple hyperlinks to webpages that provide video evidence of them completing their objective. These will be either traditional video hosting websites, or file hosting websites like Google Drive and Mega that are capable of both storing and showing videos. Submitters should be given enough characters in the text window to also provide additional text of relevant information related to their submission if they deem this necessary. The third piece of information will be the primary address of their Monero wallet or Bitcoin wallet. The fourth piece of information will be the secret view key for their Monero wallet if they provided a Monero address, and this secret view key will be required if they provided a Monero address. Submitters must be reminded on this webpage that any Monero or Bitcoin address they provide must be empty, and must not be used for any other purpose, since any money sent to their address will be deemed financial compensation by this database. Each submission must be allocated a unique alphanumeric identifier that is visible to the submitter. Ideally submitters should be able to search for their submission using this unique identifier, and be able to see if it has been deemed eligible for financial compensation without having to sign into their account.

To prevent spam submissions, it will likely be necessary for submitters to pass a series of CAPTCHAs. It may even be necessary for submitters to create an account first that also requires submitters to pass a series of CAPTCHAs. Individuals could also be forced to wait a certain number of minutes when reaching the submission page before they can click the submission button. The number of minutes could be proportional to the amount of spam submissions the website is receiving. Considering submitters will receive generous financial rewards for completing our objectives, they will be far more willing to complete these CAPTCHAs and wait to make submissions than those who only want to submit spam.

- This website will be operated by thousands or tens of thousands of moderators, who will assess submissions to ensure that they fulfill the criteria required to be eligible for financial compensation. Moderators must be able to upvote and downvote submissions, and be given the option to provide a reason for their decision. Moderators must also have different levels of voting power depending on how reliable they are, or in other words how much their voting history aligns with moderators who have a reliable track record. Controversial submissions, or in other words those that acquire a relatively equal number of upvotes and downvotes, will need to be automatically flagged for review by senior moderators. Submissions will need to be upvoted by multiple moderators before verification is made official.

- This website will need to have a selection of pages, each corresponding to a different objective, that will display all submissions that have been verified as being eligible for financial compensation. All verified submissions must be displayed in a table format so that large amounts of information can easily be copied and pasted if necessary, and so that website visitors can order these tables in ascending or descending order for all columns. These tables and submissions must include all relevant hyperlinks, the amount of time that has passed since the submission was verified, the wallet address, the amount of money in this address, and the amount of money owed to this address. The amount of money in an address should be stated in USD, crypto, and as a percentage of the total amount of money still owed. Once the total amount of money contributed to an address reaches the required amount it must be automatically removed and transferred to a different page dedicated to all fully paid submissions. This total amount of money refers to the amount donated, not the amount in the address, since increases in cryptocurrency prices could increase the amount in the address above the required threshold, meaning those who've taken money out before this occurs would end up being underpaid.

- This website will be visited by thousands to tens of thousands of people every day, so it must be capable of supporting this. In terms of costs, please keep in mind that this website will likely only need to exist for 2 years, and we will use the funds we have available to us to help finance the running of this website. The front page must contain the costs of running this website, and Monero and Bitcoin addresses for those wishing to contribute to its running and maintenance, as well as the amount of money in these addresses. A "view-only wallet" file and the "key images" file for the Monero address must be available to download.

All remaining information necessary for completing this website will be made available when we make our next major announcement.

Revealing our future initiatives

We are unable to reveal all of our future initiatives for all the reasons explained in our announcement video, which can be read in the "Announcement 1 Video Transcript" section of this document. However, we will reveal to multiple public figures our future initiatives so that they can attest to their ability to rapidly and radically change the world as we have claimed.

Currently we need help finding at least a dozen well-known YouTube channels that are willing to assist us with this initiative. These channels would ideally be run by independent left-wing political and economic commentators, although channels outside of this could also be included if they are clearly left-wing. Ideal candidates would be those who recognize the desperate need for, and are willing to support, legal yet radical action. These channels will be generously financially compensated if they help us and if our movement is successful. If you support our movement please flood such channels with messages making them aware of this request. This needs to be completed urgently because our plans involve tight deadlines, and people likely won't trust us, or be willing to help us to the extent required, until this initiative is completed.

We appreciate that asking people to pressure YouTube channels to collaborate with us for this initiative is unconventional, and requires a leap of faith. However, considering the revolutionary potential of our movement, and considering most left-wing political and economic commentators chose their line of work to make the world a better place, this isn't an unreasonable request. Additionally, even a cursory glance at our manifesto and this document makes it clear the extensive amount of research and problem-solving that has gone into our movement thus far, so it would be reasonable to assume the same also holds true for our future initiatives.

We will now explain the procedure we have created to enable this initiative to be carried out safely. We apologize in advance if some of these steps are confusing, but this is unavoidably necessary. If these channels are willing to assist us they will need to do the following.

1. They must download and install software that can create password protected PGP keys and read encrypted PGP messages offline.
2. They must create their own PGP key.
3. They must encrypt their PGP public key and email address using our PGP public key, and post this encrypted message on a minimum of 2 social media accounts in case one account is hacked. Alternatively and ideally they would post this message in the video description of an unlisted YouTube video, on their main YouTube channel. In this video they would appear on screen and also show this message on screen. This would be ideal since it would guarantee that the message is not the result of their accounts having been hacked.
4. Hyperlinks to these messages must be collected by our supporters and posted online where we can easily find them, and ideally on the page of the Xova wiki that is dedicated to communicating with us.

After these 4 steps have been completed we will encrypt our message to them using their PGP public key and email them these encrypted messages. Guides on how to create and use PGP Keys can easily be found online, although we hope our supporters will also be willing to assist these individuals if they require help.

Validation video

We are looking for at least one volunteer to create a video that compiles the most important segments of the videos of public figures validating our future initiatives. When this video is uploaded the video description must contain URL hyperlinks to every video that appears in this video. This is to prove that these videos represent legitimate endorsements, and are not AI. This video should include on screen relevant information that validates the significance of these public figures, such as their name and viewer or subscriber count.

Support video

We are looking for at least one volunteer to create and regularly update a professional-looking video that will appear on the front page of our website. The purpose of this video is to generate hype and enthusiasm for our movement. This video will consequently need to include clips of people expressing support for our movement, and particularly famous and significant public figures and organizations. This video should also obviously include relevant information on screen that validates the significance of these public figures and organizations, such as their name and job title. The more public figures we can include in this video the better, so we would strongly encourage our supporters to also try to persuade as many famous public figures as possible to publically express support for our movement. This video could also include snippets from the videos of public figures validating our future initiatives if this works well with the rest of the video. This video does not need to repeat information stated in our "Announcement 1 Video", which will also appear on the front page of our website. This video should be considered far more important than our "Announcement 1 Video", which is only designed to provide a simple and clinical summary of our movement. These videos must also not contain anything that could result in their removal from our website, such as anything that falls outside of fair use.

Promotional material

We are looking for volunteers to produce promotional material, such as photos, posters, and videos, that can be freely used by us and our supporters for things like merchandise, websites, television adverts, internet adverts, billboards, and sky banners.

For STEM experts only

To STEM experts in relevant fields, we would encourage you to establish an international organization that is responsible for organizing, and raising funds for, research and development into HyperVR. Any delays to its creation must be avoided at all costs.

IMPORTANT

Please watch until after the voice-over ends, particularly if you are hesitant to support our movement. Our movement can easily succeed, and the success of our movement will radically improve everyone's quality of life and help address many global crises.

Spoken text

Hello everyone. This is the founders of The Xova Movement.

The Xova Movement is a left-wing activist initiative that has been 10 years in the making, and this is our first announcement. Our mission is to create an ideal world and future for everyone, and as rapidly as possible. Our primary plan for achieving this is to transition all countries to democratic socialism, which among other things would include abolishing the ruling class, introducing a Universal Basic Income, generously funding public infrastructures and services, transitioning societies to a 4 day workweek, guaranteeing fair wages for all workers, making businesses optimally democratic, preventing all future economic downturns, permanently ending inflation, and decommodifying all goods and services, including abolishing rent and mortgage interest payments. We also have viable plans for, among other things, tackling climate change, decriminalizing recreational drugs, protecting LGBT+ rights, protecting abortion rights, protecting animal rights, and reducing the threat of fascism, religious extremism, and future wars. We have 2 primary approaches for achieving these goals.

Our first approach is to empower all populations with the knowledge required to create and maintain functioning and prosperous societies, particularly by making it universally understood why capitalism is a fundamentally broken system and why democratic socialism must be adopted globally. This goal will be achieved by making all of our manifesto's essential ideas common knowledge through various initiatives.

Our second approach is to achieve 12 essential election reforms, and to hold elections for every electable position in November 2024, in as many countries as possible. Our most important election reform is the ability of the lower classes to initiate spontaneous elections. This is because the idea that elections should only happen at set times, and particularly only 2 or 3 times a decade, is one of the most harmful lies currently being perpetuated by the ruling class.

These goals are idealistic, but they can be achieved in many countries within this time frame, and will create the foundations for a global revolution over a longer time frame. Additionally, it has never been the responsibility of those seeking justice to compromise their ideals, but to instead demand what is logically and morally justified. Considering how many adults and children around the world are needlessly suffering and dying, and the number of global crises facing humanity, including ever worsening existential threats, it should go without saying that now is not the time to compromise.

Before exploring the initiatives we have planned for achieving our goals, we first want to explain 4 main reasons why our movement is uniquely capable of succeeding.

1. Our movement has quite possibly the most objective and comprehensive founding document ever written for an initiative of our type. Most importantly, our manifesto uses a first principles approach for defending our political and economic ideas, meaning they are effectively irrefutable. This gives our movement an unprecedented ability to explain and justify itself, particularly to critics, which is a problem that even plagues other initiatives that are logically and morally justified.

2. Our movement has a multitude of both proven and original strategies that will very easily make our movement a rapidly growing international phenomenon. This will initially be achieved through conventional forms of marketing. Our future initiatives however will involve legal yet rapidly escalating public spectacles that are guaranteed to make our movement one of the biggest news stories of the 21st century. These spectacles will predominantly involve uniquely designed public protests comprised of millions of people.

3. Our movement has the ability to gain the support of the majority of people in society, since our political and economic reforms will substantially improve everyone's quality of life in an extremely short time frame. Our initiatives are specifically designed to make the majority of people in the world aware of this. However, even if only a small percentage of the world's population participates in our initiatives, our movement is still guaranteed to achieve its goals.

4. Our movement has plans to generously financially reward those who participate in our future initiatives. This has the ability to substantially increase the amount of support that our movement receives, including support from those uninterested in activism.

The combination of these 4 traits places our movement in a unique position to succeed. All that is needed now is for others to carry out our plans, starting with 4 simple initiatives.

1. Do everything you can to spread awareness of our movement. One of the best ways to do this would be to print off copies of our "Xova Announcement Flyer" and deliver these to as many homes as possible within your neighborhood. This alone could make it universally known that our movement's success will substantially improve everyone's quality of life.

Another invaluable approach would be to encourage influential public figures to spread awareness. We would also encourage those who spread awareness of our movement via social media to include the hashtag #Xova18. This hashtag refers to the 18 terms explored in Part 1 of Chapter 1 of our manifesto, which succinctly prove why wealth is unfairly distributed under capitalism, and why well-funded public infrastructures and services, and a Universal Basic Income, are irrefutable human rights.

2. Read our manifesto if you have the time. Among other important topics our manifesto contains essential and original ideas regarding critical thinking, propaganda, ethics, science, technology, politics, economics, society, culture, global crises, and the future. However, another equally important reason to read our manifesto is that it is guaranteed to be misrepresented by others, and particularly right-wing propagandists. If you lack the time, please at least read the "Foreword", the "Introduction", and any parts that you feel would be personally relevant. If you want detailed advice on how to support our movement, please read Chapter 3: Part 4 (p. 585) of our manifesto and our "Xova Announcement 1" document. If you want to truly appreciate why the success of our movement is paramount, please read the "Statistics" (p. 411) and "Additional crises" (p. 559) sections of our manifesto. If you doubt capitalism's brokenness or democratic socialism's viability, please read Chapter 1 (p. 8) of our manifesto. If you want to understand our plans for creating a utopian future, please read the "Technology" (p. 444) section of our manifesto. All documents are available at TheXovaMovement.com and the Xova wiki. Please keep in mind that our website and other accounts could be hacked, so if in doubt please use the verification codes towards the end of this video to verify our files.

3. Spread awareness of the ideas in this manifesto, and ideally encourage others to read it, or at least the sections deemed most relevant for specific individuals. One of the greatest obstacles to achieving global change are echo chambers, and this initiative will be essential for overcoming this problem over the coming months.

4. Relentlessly pressure politicians in your country to enact our 12 election reforms, and to hold elections for every electable position in November. This timetable is viable in many countries, but will require plaguing politicians with these demands constantly until they have fully complied. If politicians say they are unwilling to enact these reforms, or are unable to do so within this time frame, then they will only be proving their corruption and incompetence, and thus will only be further proving the necessity of our reforms. The power to have complete and ongoing control over the officials and institutions that influence one's life is an inalienable human right. Our reforms guarantee the fulfillment of this right to the greatest extent possible, which is why it is logically and morally justifiable to use every legal method available to relentlessly pressure politicians until they have complied. This initiative must become the highest priority of the lower classes, and particularly all activist initiatives, until these demands have been met. This must remain true even if this goal hasn't been achieved by our deadline. Our 12 reforms, justifications, and timetable, are explored further in the "Election reforms" (p. 430) section of our manifesto.

If you are tired of the horrendous state of the world and understand the gross immorality of allowing it to perpetuate and worsen, then please prioritize these 4 primary initiatives above all else. The unavoidable truth is that nothing will change until corrupt and incompetent politicians are replaced with competent democratic socialists who will actually serve the people. Our movement can easily achieve this in many countries within our time frame, even if our 4 primary initiatives are only pursued by politically engaged left-wing individuals, although ideally our movement would attain support far beyond this. Our most important future initiatives will require millions of people around the world to participate in public protests soon after our next major announcement, which we hope to release in early June. Consequently our movement needs to go viral rapidly, and our flyer needs to be delivered to a significant number of homes around the world by this time. If this isn't achieved then our movement will likely never succeed, for reasons explored further along. It should go without saying that if our movement is capable of achieving a revolution then it cannot afford to fail. Even in a worst-case scenario our current and future initiatives will still enable the lower classes, and particularly the left, to achieve substantially greater progress than any other initiative or strategy currently being implemented. Furthermore, understand that if our movement fails, there is little reason why any other initiative with any of our goals will succeed. Fortunately our movement can easily succeed. Not only has the desire for radical global change never been greater, but this desire will increase substantially once it becomes universally understood how much everyone's quality of life will improve if our movement succeeds. However, our movement will only succeed with rapidly increasing global support. So please do everything that you can to support our movement.

Unspoken text

The following text can also be found at TheXovaMovement.com and in our "Xova Announcement 1" document under the "Announcement 1 video transcript" section. Each of the following slides of text will only appear on screen for 1 second.

The following information is essential reading for those who have not yet been convinced to support our movement, or those who want to maximize our movement's success. We apologize for the length of the following information, but initial responses to our movement have proven this necessary.

It is important to appreciate that our movement can genuinely succeed, and there are few obstacles that can prevent this, particularly long-term. Some may be concerned that our movement's success relies upon changing people's minds about democratic socialism, but this is definitely an achievable goal. Aside from everything previously stated, most Millennials and younger individuals are economically left-wing and deeply concerned about the state of the world, and if a sizable percentage of these individuals can persuade their parents and other family members to spend just a few hours reading all or some of Chapter 1 of our manifesto, this could significantly increase the number of democratic socialists in society. Our manifesto has been designed to be a definitive yet easy to understand Marxist critique of capitalism and introduction to democratic socialism, and is consequently more irrefutable, accessible, and up-to-date, than most other Marxist texts, and well-suited for achieving this goal. Our manifesto also provides irrefutable arguments regarding other important subjects, including morality, animal rights, abortion rights, and recreational drugs. Because of all this we doubt anyone will regret reading our manifesto even if they decide not to support our movement afterwards, although we are confident in the persuasive power of all of our arguments. Reading our manifesto obviously takes time, but this will be overwhelmingly outweighed by the time people will save from our movement's success, particularly through the transition to a 4 day workweek and the substantial increase in everyone's discretionary income and purchasing power.

Most people's minds are also easier to change than most appreciate. For example, countless left-wing individuals have explained on social media how they escaped the alt-right pipeline after just a small amount of exposure to left-wing ideas. Another example is how popularity polls regarding people and issues can change radically after singular newsworthy events. Another example is the proven effectiveness of canvassing, particularly during political campaigns. Of course not everyone's mind can be changed, but most can, and our supporters only need to change enough mind's to swing elections. This is another reason why reading our manifesto is so invaluable, since it provides the strongest arguments available for persuading others of the most important left-wing positions.

Our movement is also prioritizing educating individuals who protect the ruling class and their interests, such as those who work for intelligence agencies, law enforcement, the military, private security agencies, and legal systems. One of our primary goals is to make them aware that they and our movement are on the same side. More specifically, our goal is to make them aware that the success of our movement will substantially benefit them, their loved ones, and everyone else in the world, and far more so than anything else. The success of this goal won't be essential for our movement's success, but could help substantially in many areas.

Our movement also has the potential to succeed because all of our current and future initiatives are relatively easy to implement, and because they are all based on tried-and-true tactics utilized successfully by organizations and activists in the past. The potential of our movement will become even clearer when we announce all of our future initiatives, only some of which can be mentioned here. We cannot announce them yet because we have no choice but to minimize resistance to our movement as we spread awareness during these early stages. Because our future initiatives will massively increase the likelihood of our movement succeeding, they will also increase the likelihood of our website and accounts being sabotaged, which could destroy our entire movement before it even gets off the ground. Additionally, if we announce our future initiatives now, the ruling class will have more time to pursue counter measures that could reduce the success of these initiatives. We do however plan to reveal our future initiatives to multiple trusted left-wing public figures immediately after this first announcement, who will be able to attest to the viability of these initiatives, including their ability to rapidly and radically change the world as we have claimed.

We can however briefly outline a few of our future initiatives here. Some of our primary initiatives will involve persuading influential public figures to read our manifesto, participate in public debates, and produce content about our movement, in exchange for donations to them or donations to charities. Other initiatives include persuading members of the public to read all or parts of our manifesto, and to participate in public protests, in exchange for financial rewards. These public protests in particular are especially important, and will require the participation of millions of people around the world to be maximally effective. In fact our ideal goal is to make from now until the end of November the most intense period of activism in human history. All of this is possible for all aforementioned reasons, but this ideal will only be achieved if the lower classes unite behind our movement.

If the left in particular doesn't unite behind our movement, and continues to divide their efforts focusing on separate issues, such as economic reforms, climate action, LGBT+ rights, fighting fascism, etc., then not only are they less likely to succeed, but any success will only ever apply to a single issue at a time. If however the entire left unites behind our movement, not only will the left be far more likely to succeed, but succeeding at educating populations and achieving election reforms will also mean substantially more people who are competent and who hold left-wing beliefs will be elected to power, which will finally enable the left to adequately address all the problems they are currently trying to address.

The bottom line is that our two primary goals of educating populations and achieving election reforms are orders of magnitude more important than any other initiative or strategy being implemented by the lower classes, including addressing existential threats like climate change, since nothing meaningful will change while corrupt and incompetent politicians remain in power. There is little value in understanding the world's problems and proposing solutions unless this is combined with viable strategies for attaining the power required to implement such solutions. Even if these goals can't be achieved within certain countries within our time frame, they can and must be achieved within these countries eventually.

Our initiatives are not only the best suited for achieving these goals, but even if they don't fully succeed in certain countries within our time frame, the populations of these countries will at least end up far more economically literate and far more appreciative of the need for election reforms. Additionally, it will even be to our advantage if our election reforms and elections do not occur in many countries within our time frame, since this will provide more time to convince people of the superiority of democratic socialism, as well as other left-wing positions. This means that once elections do eventually occur within these countries, with or without our election reforms, those who support democratic socialism and other left-wing positions are far more likely to be elected to power.

However, our goals and strict time frame are still not unreasonable to strive for in most countries. The demands we are making are logically and morally justified, so there is no reason not to place immense pressure on governments to fulfill them as rapidly as possible. And it is important not to underestimate the pressure that our movement could create in this time frame. Our movement could go viral rapidly, and attain international support before our next major announcement, particularly if our flyer can be delivered to a significant percentage of homes around the world by this time. This will be challenging but is plausible. If 500,000 people each delivered flyers to 800 homes over the course of a single weekend, theoretically this would cover practically all homes in the developed world. Individual protests can attract anywhere from 100,000 to 1 million people, so finding enough people to help with this initiative is possible, particularly considering this video, our announcement flyer, and our manifesto, clearly explain how a democratic socialist revolution would quickly and substantially improve everyone's quality of life.

Achieving a democratic socialist revolution may sound implausible, but at this moment in time there are very good reasons to believe this is possible in many countries within our time frame. There have already been numerous revolutions throughout history, and these occurred without mass communication technologies. There are also recent examples of spontaneous activist initiatives spreading rapidly within countries and across the planet, such as the Arab Spring protests, the George Floyd protests, and most recently the Gaza ceasefire protests. Regarding these ceasefire protests, these have involved over 1 million people from multiple countries around the world participating in prolonged public protests, and all because of the death of thousands of people, and the persecution of 2.4 million people. Now consider how many people would be willing to participate in prolonged public protests in order to substantially improve the quality of life of themselves and their loved ones, as well as for the sake of the billions of adults and children that are needlessly suffering right now, the tens of millions of adults and children that needlessly die every year, and the many global crises that are rapidly worsening.

There are also recent examples demonstrating how even small singular instances of activism can attain international attention, such as in October 2022 when 2 Just Stop Oil protesters threw soup at the glass cover of a Van Gogh painting, which immediately became international news and a subject of widespread cultural discourse for multiple weeks. This demonstrates how even small-scale yet well-designed protests are capable of attracting international attention. Now consider that if just 2 people can achieve this with a single instance of activism, imagine how much millions of people could achieve over multiple months with the right strategy.

Hopefully this begins to prove why our movement is capable of achieving its ambitions. Not only are there more than enough people willing to engage in prolonged activism, but the diverse and well-designed nature of our initiatives, including generous financial rewards for those who participate in our most important future initiatives, demonstrates why revolutionary change is possible. So our goal of becoming a global movement within the immediate future, and achieving a revolution in many countries by the end of November, is not just necessary but entirely feasible. And as our movement grows in size and influence, and more and more countries end up being run by democratic socialists who support our movement, our supporters in all remaining countries will receive ever increasing support from the international community, and the governments of these countries will come under ever increasing pressure to acquiesce to our demands. The only thing that will prevent all of this is an initial lack of support for our movement.

To those who have spent their life being politically unengaged, understand that the success of our movement will improve your quality of life significantly, and will substantially increase your chances of living long enough to experience the technological utopia described in our manifesto. However, even if this wasn't true, the current state of the world still demands your political engagement. As Albert Einstein said, "The world is a dangerous place to live; not because of the people who are evil, but because of the people who don't do anything about it". Our movement can easily succeed however, so please don't see supporting our movement as a burden, but as an opportunity to contribute to what has the potential to be the most significant revolution in human history.

For those that have any additional concerns about our movement's legitimacy, viability, or trustworthiness, we will address these now. In terms of our legitimacy, we have provided a 262,000 word manifesto that took 10 years of extensive research and problem-solving to create, and which not only contains essential information that even most left-wing individuals are unaware of, but also a large number of valuable original ideas.

In terms of our viability, it is irrefutable that the combination of our 4 primary initiatives, the other initiatives detailed in Chapter 3: Part 4 (p. 585) of our manifesto, and the small number of future initiatives revealed in this announcement video, would at the very least enable the lower classes to make substantial progress, and substantially greater progress than any other initiative or strategy they are currently implementing. As previously stated, our future initiatives will also involve generous financial rewards for certain participants, which itself has the ability to substantially increase support for our movement. In practical terms this will involve our supporters financially rewarding these participants for their efforts. If 4 million of our supporters contribute just $10 to $40 every month, this would equate to $100 million for every month of activism, which indicates how impactful our movement could be. Most of the world's 8 billion people want a better world, or at least a substantially higher quality of life for themselves and their loved ones, so finding 4 million people to contribute this much every month is definitely possible. Our movement plans to perpetuate this strategy into the future until we have achieved our goals in as many countries as possible. Our movement is capable of achieving revolutionary progress even without providing rewards, although rewards will multiply many times over the extent of this progress. However, what is just as important as any of this is our plan to reveal our future initiatives to multiple trusted left-wing public figures, who will be able to attest to the viability of these initiatives.

In terms of our trustworthiness, this is guaranteed by virtue of the fact that our movement will become entirely decentralized after our next major announcement when we reveal our future initiatives, meaning that the issue of trust is effectively irrelevant. In other words, there will never be a centralized organization that can be corrupted. The only hypothetical problem would be if we didn't release our future initiatives, but this is also irrelevant since we will reveal our future initiatives to multiple trusted left-wing public figures immediately after this announcement. If we fail to release our future initiatives, these individuals can simply release them on our behalf. This also means that our anonymity is not evidence that we are untrustworthy, which could initially be a point of concern for some. We unfortunately have no choice but to remain anonymous due to the very real danger the ruling class poses to us. Every year people are harassed, imprisoned, tortured, and murdered, for challenging singular yet powerful corporations and individuals, let alone the entire ruling class as we are currently doing. And this is not exclusive to businesses or developing countries. Even "civil" and "democratic" Western governments have proven themselves to have nothing but malicious contempt for activists. The militarized and brutal suppression of peaceful protests, and the grossly inhumane treatment of activists like Edward Snowden, Chelsea Manning, and Julian Assange, perfectly illustrate how reprehensibly hostile Western politicians are to those who challenge them and their allies. Consequently, our anonymity is fully justified, and should also not be a source of concern.

If you want our movement to succeed, we would ask that you offer us your full support immediately. Our movement has unfortunately already experienced many months of delays, and we cannot afford further delays. The first reason is that if there are any further delays our future initiatives will not be able to take place in the Western world during late spring, summer, and early autumn, which are ideal months for public protesting. The second and most obvious reason is the dire state of the world, which is not only worsening, but worsening at a rapid rate. During the past 8 months alone multiple significant climate change records have been broken. During the past 7 months alone the Israel-Palestine conflict has escalated by orders of magnitude. During the past 6 months alone the possibility of Donald Trump becoming president this year has increased substantially, which among other disasters would result in the fascist "Project 2025" being implemented, and a significant increase in the number of adults and children that will die from climate change. During the past 5 months alone tensions between North Korea and South Korea have escalated significantly. During the past 4 months alone the war in Ukraine has worsened even further. During the past 3 months alone multiple countries, including developed countries, have either introduced military conscription or started discussing it as a serious possibility. During the past 2 months alone right-wing and fascist politicians and parties have made significant gains in European elections. During the past month alone tensions between Israel and Iran have escalated significantly. These few examples are not even close to being a comprehensive list. Time critical issues and rapidly escalating situations like this arise all the time, which is all the more reason our movement cannot afford any further delays.

[For those who have yet to be convinced to support our movement, please continue reading. The following is also a preemptive response to our future critics, as well as a response to the small number of left-wing individuals who criticized our movement after our prior announcements and subsequently prevented our movement from getting off the ground.]

Despite everything stated thus far, our movement has already experienced some resistance, and not from the right as we anticipated, but from a very small number of people on the left who were the first to become aware of our movement. As evidenced by video analytics and comment sections, the reason for this resistance derives entirely from the unwillingness of our critics to do even a minimal amount of research into our movement, or what can only be described as extremely uncharitable, lazy, and irrational interpretations of the information we have provided thus far. The number of commenters and comment voters on our previous announcement videos have always substantially outnumbered actual viewing numbers, and the majority of those who watched our previous videos stopped even before the midway point, leading to critics expressing and upvoting grossly uninformed and unreasonable opinions about our movement.

Considering everything we have explained thus far, it is deeply concerning that our movement has been experiencing this much difficulty gaining traction. All information necessary for determining our movement's legitimacy, viability, and trustworthiness, has always been easily accessible and clearly expressed. This lack of due diligence on behalf of our left-wing critics is made substantially worse by the fact that the left have failed severely over the past 50 years to bring about meaningful political and economic changes. In fact the state of the world has deteriorated substantially during this time, and things are only getting increasingly desperate, such as with capitalism, climate change, resource depletion, and fascism.

Worse still is that the left clearly has no strategies moving forward to address these problems, other than continuing to use strategies that have already proven to be grossly inadequate or unjustifiably slow. Climate change protests and the recent Gaza ceasefire protests demonstrate the general ineffectiveness of current strategies, and the urgent need to focus on removing the current political ruling class through mass education and election reforms. In fact many of the strategies the left advocate for are even harmful, such as public protests that block roads and consequently emergency services, and strikes in industries that provide essential services, such as healthcare and social work. These problems can not only cause harm to innocent people, but can needlessly cultivate animosity towards left-wing activists, initiatives, and causes. In this context, the casual dismissal and quick denunciation of our movement should be considered deeply troubling.

The left obviously isn't in such a privileged position that such immature responses to our movement can be considered reasonable. Because our initiatives are capable of achieving a global democratic socialist revolution over a long time frame, which would inevitably save the lives of the tens of millions of people that unnecessarily die every year due to capitalism, it is not unreasonable to argue that these many months of delays have cost millions to tens of millions of lives. If anyone doubts these figures we would implore you to read the "Statistics" (p. 411) and "Additional crises" (p. 559) sections of our manifesto, which explore the incomprehensible amount of needless suffering and death occurring around the world, and the future crises humanity will or could face. This need for urgent action hopefully clarifies why delays to our movement getting started have been so inexcusable.

Fitting all of our initiatives into the time between now and the end of November is going to be challenging, but is possible. However, if there are any more delays then this could prevent our movement from succeeding entirely. This is because the more our movement is delayed the greater the likelihood that our website or accounts will be sabotaged, and the greater the likelihood that the name of our movement and related hyperlinks will be banned from social media websites due to misinformation. If this occurs this will effectively put a permanent end to our movement. However, even if this doesn't occur our movement is still unlikely to succeed, since there are no other practical strategies available to us other than the ones we are currently implementing.

Because of all this, our movement must immediately receive the support it requires. The only viable route for achieving meaningful change right now is the revolution our movement is more than capable of achieving, which could be attested to by multiple trusted left-wing public figures within mere days. We have gone above and beyond to prove our movement's legitimacy, viability, and trustworthiness, and we have done all that we can in terms of planning. There are no good excuses for any further delays, let alone the failure of our movement. If anyone is still unwilling to support our movement after everything we've explained here, then as far as we're concerned they are effectively forfeiting their right to complain about capitalism, climate change, resource depletion, fascism, and all the other problems our movement can solve or improve.

At time of writing we have a number of initiatives that require urgent attention, most of which are explored in more detail in our "Xova Announcement 1" document. These need to be completed as soon as possible as our current and future initiatives depend on them. Urgent initiatives include ensuring our movement and hyperlinks can be posted on all social media sites, translating our manifesto and flyer into other languages, the creation of fitness-for-duty tests for political candidates, the creation of voting and redistricting software, and the creation of the Xova wiki, including the 8 databases, 2 critiques, and the page for informing us of essential information.

However, our most urgent initiative is finding at least a dozen well-known independent left-wing political and economic commentators who run YouTube channels who are willing to help us with validating our future initiatives. Ideal candidates would be those who recognize the desperate need for, and are willing to support, legal yet radical action. To call this urgent would be a severe understatement, since it is unlikely most people will consider our movement viable until this has been achieved. Additionally, such individuals are collectively watched by millions of people every week, meaning that once they validate our future initiatives and start advocating for our movement, awareness of our movement will grow rapidly. We are confident that whoever we reveal our future initiatives to will agree that they have the potential to achieve the revolutionary progress we have described, so this could be confirmed within mere days with enough support. We appreciate that asking YouTube channels to collaborate with us for this initiative is unconventional, and requires a leap of faith. However, this should only take them about 90 minutes, and considering the potential of our movement, and that most left-wing political and economic commentators chose their line of work to make the world a better place, this isn't an unreasonable request. Additionally, even a cursory glance at our manifesto and our "Xova Announcement 1" document makes it clear the extensive amount of research and problem-solving that has gone into our movement thus far, so it would be reasonable to assume the same also holds true for our future initiatives. Details regarding revealing our future initiatives can be found on p. 29 of our "Xova Announcement 1" document. After our future initiatives have been validated, the entirety of the left, and ideally the entirety of the lower classes, must work around the clock to maximize the success of our movement. Once these commentators have expressed their support, and as ever more people express their support, a continuously updated video showing this support will be placed on the front page of our website as a way of validating our movement to the public and generating enthusiasm.

If you are willing to help financially you should contribute to the Xova Decentralized Fund. This fund is not controlled by us. This fund will simply involve people purchasing Monero, and then using this to directly financially reward those who participate in our most important future initiatives. Monero is a long established cryptocurrency, similar to Bitcoin, but one that maximizes privacy by making all wallets and transactions anonymous and untraceable by default. Because of this it is highly respected by many activists. As previously stated, our movement is capable of achieving revolutionary progress even without providing rewards, but if 4 million of our supporters purchase just $10 to $40 of Monero every month, this would equate to $100 million every month, and would multiply many times over the extent of this progress. Consequently, if you want our movement to succeed please seriously consider purchasing Monero in preparation for our future initiatives.

If you are willing to donate money to us directly, you can donate to our Xova Centralized Fund. Contributions will primarily be used in the immediate future and over the following months to provide rewards for certain initiatives, and to cover the costs of running the Xova wiki and Xova Rewards Database. Because this fund only accepts Monero and Bitcoin, all incoming and outgoing transactions can be verified online, which will prove that all contributions are being used as described here.

Cryptocurrencies can be purchased from cryptocurrency trading websites such as Kraken.com, KuCoin.com, Bitfinex.com, Crypto.com, and Binance.com. If you cannot send cryptocurrencies to our addresses from these websites, simply send them first to your own decentralized wallet, which can easily be created with software like Atomic Wallet, Exodus Wallet, Monero GUI Wallet, and Electrum Bitcoin Wallet. Alternatively you can send your cryptocurrency first to an exchange website like SimpleSwap.io, Changelly.com, or Flyp.me. Bitcoin can also be purchased from decentralized peer-to-peer websites like Paxful.com and Hodlhodl.com, many of which offer traditional payment options like cash, debit cards, and PayPal.

CAUTION! PLEASE BEWARE OF SCAMMERS, INCLUDING THE POSSIBILITY OF OUR WEBSITE BEING HACKED. ALWAYS VERIFY AT LEAST THE FIRST 12 CHARACTERS OF OUR ADDRESSES USING THIS VIDEO. THESE ADDRESSES WILL NEVER CHANGE, MEANING ANYONE WHO PROVIDES DIFFERENT ADDRESSES IS VERY LIKELY A SCAMMER.

Due to the possibility that our website and accounts could be hacked by those wishing to sabotage our movement, we have provided Monero verification signatures which can be used to prove irrefutably whether or not messages and files are from us. For those that want to understand how to use these signatures, please read the "Authenticity verification" (p. 54) section of our "Xova Announcement 1" document. Verification should take about 5 minutes the first time, then about 30 seconds all subsequent times. The following signatures can be used to verify our files.

AUTHENTICITY VERIFICATION

To provide irrefutable proof that all of our messages and files are from us, the founders of The Xova Movement, we have provided Monero verification signatures. These are included below, and are also included at the end of our announcement video.

Monero can not only be used to send and receive money, but also to provide a “verification signature” for text messages and files. Only those who possess the “keys” to spend the money in a Monero address can produce these verification signatures. A verification signature comes in the form of a 93 character alphanumeric code. Since we are the only ones with access to the keys for our Monero address, we are also the only ones that can produce verification signatures using this address.

To verify that messages and files are from us, please do the following.

1. Download and install the Monero GUI Wallet from getmonero.org.
2. Open the program and select either the "Simple mode" option or the "Advanced mode" option. With the "Advanced mode" option the Monero GUI wallet will attempt to download the Monero blockchain, although this can be stopped after creating a wallet. If you choose to download the Monero blockchain to your computer, please be aware that it is about 180 gigabytes in size, although this blockchain file can be reduced to about 70 gigabytes in size once downloaded if the pruning feature is enabled.
3. Create or open a wallet. If you chose the "Advanced mode" option and want to avoid downloading the blockchain, click the "Settings" option from the menu on the left, and then click the "Node" tab. Click "Stop daemon" to stop downloading the blockchain.
4. Click the "Advanced" option from the menu on the left, and then click the "Sign/Verify" tab. Under "Mode" click "Message" or "File" depending on what you want to verify. If verifying a message, go to the section below called "Verify message" and copy and paste a message into the "Message" box. If verifying a file, go to the section below called "Verify file" and click "Browse" and select the file. Then in the "Address" box paste our Xova Compensation Fund Monero address:

42CeTZdoVS8cvwwx2gbAUAh5wagRmVTVwGHWq312BejwJ6AHEj1ju
g12GNWv59tt9YQFqJLVDMQn2hhCRJV7JKhZAuxqGhv

In the "Signature" box paste the verification signature we have provided for the message or file you wish to verify. The verification signatures for our files are provided below. Then click "Verify Message". If the message is from us, the resulting message should say something like "Good signature: This is a good signature". If the message is not from us, the resulting message should say something like "Bad signature: This signature did not verify". We will provide additional Monero verification signatures for all important future messages and files released by our movement.

COMPENSATION

For those who are unsure about compensating us for our work on The Xova Movement, or who believe we are undeserving of compensation, we will briefly address this here. First, if you are reading this before our next major announcement, you are probably also reading it after multiple trusted left-wing public figures have attested to the fact that our future initiatives are capable of achieving the radical change we are advocating for. So if you are unsure if our movement is viable, and therefore unsure if we are deserving of compensation, this should hopefully put this concern to rest.

Second, our manifesto reasonably concludes that every worker's compensation should be proportional to the value and difficulty of their labor, and the value and difficulty of the labor we have engaged in to create The Xova Movement are both on the extreme end. If our movement succeeds, then this could save the lives of millions and improve the lives of billions, in which case our labor will have been highly valuable. Our labor has also been extremely difficult for understandable reasons. We have worked tirelessly on this project for 10 years in order to get it off the ground as quickly as possible, and have had to make extreme personal sacrifices in all areas of our lives during this time, including sacrifices related to all of our relationships, careers, and hobbies. We have also lived perpetually with the knowledge that we could eventually be discovered and have our lives destroyed by a ruling class that has shown no hesitation in harassing, imprisoning, torturing, and murdering those who pose a threat to them, including those living in developed countries. This has obviously been highly stressful for us, and has unsurprisingly taken a severe toll on our physical health, mental health, and overall quality of life.

Our decision to seek compensation is therefore not unreasonable. We did not create The Xova Movement to be compensated, and would have created it even if we knew with certainty that we would never be compensated. However, asking for compensation is not unreasonable all considered. Additionally, if our identities become known, not only will we need to hire legal aid, but each of us will also have to hire a security detail for the rest of our lives, which will cost us a considerable amount, unless these are provided for free by the government. For example, hiring 3-person teams for 24/7 security, at a cost of $25 per hour per person, would cost each of us $13 million over 20 years. Considering how many enemies we are going to make among the ruling class, such precautionary measures would not be unreasonable.

For those that wish to compensate us for the 10 years we have been freely working on The Xova Movement, you can do so by donating Monero to our Xova Compensation Fund. This money will also enable us to begin working full-time on The Xova Movement, which will be particularly important over the coming months.

SUICIDE NOTICE

In the event that we are captured, we wish to state here preemptively that there is zero possibility that we will commit suicide under any circumstance, not least because we are all fully aware of the utopian future made possible by HyperVR. It is also extremely unlikely that we will die unless we are severely mistreated, since none of us have underlying physical health conditions.
